10 Persons Die in Explosion, Fire in Virginia

Man Lights Gas Heater, 3-Story Building Gutted

PULASKI, Va. (AP) — A restaurant owner lit a match to a gas heater and touched off an explosion and fire today that leveled a three-story brick building with the possible loss of 10 lives.

The blast rocked the old business section of this manufacturing town of 9,000 and in a matter of minutes the building was a giant torch. It housed a restaurant, two shops and a Salvation Army transient home on the ground level. Seven families lived in upper-floor apartments.

Four survivors of the 15 or 16 believed in the building were hospitalized and one unidentified body was recovered. Police Lt. G. E. Bouldin said he believed 10 to 12 bodies were in the smoldering ruins. Only the back wall and a small section of the side wall were still standing when firemen finally put down the flames.

A witness said the blast lifted the roof which then crumpled inward.

A National Guard company from the Pulaski-Radford area was ordered on duty.

Police Chief Lee S. Boothe said it probably would be late afternoon before the charred ruins could be examined carefully.

W. J. Mahaffey, the restaurant operator, said he was met with a roaring explosion when he struck a match to the gas heater at about 6 a. m. Mahaffey, a man in his 70s, was hospitalized with undetermined injuries.

Mahaffey's wife, who lived with him in an apartment upstairs, escaped from the building by sliding down a drain pipe. The first explosion blew off the backstairs to the apartment.

The Salvation Army maintained a transient headquarters on the first floor of the building. It was not known immediately if there were any occupants.

The explosion rocked houses for several miles and knocked out windows in an area of three blocks. Two cars in front of the buildings were demolished.

Revenue Chief Goodwin Cited for Contempt

FORT SMITH (AP) — Olin S. Goodwin, Arkansas director of Internal Revenue Service, has been cited for contempt of court in Ashley County, it was revealed today.

In their cited by 2nd District Chancellor James Merritt, acting as Ashley County probate judge.

The case has been removed to Federal Court at El Dorado.

Court records here said Goodwin was cited for failing to appear at a hearing at Hamburg after he was subpoenaed. The hearing concerned a government claim against the estate of Howard A. Shutt.

When Goodwin failed to appear for the hearing, according to Federal Court records, Judge Merritt issued a writ of attachment for Goodwin. A writ of attachment, issued for a witness, compares to a warrant of arrest issued for a defendant.

In their answer, U. S. attorneys said Goodwin sent two men to the hearing to represent him. He contended they were better acquainted with the case than he.

Godwin, who is free on $2,000 bond, declined to comment at Little Rock.

No hearing date has been set.

Invisible Mist Troubles Tulsa

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — An invisible mist that can be felt and which smells like freshly sawed fiber wood, today still was causing Tulsa officials and some motorists trouble because it eats paint off automobiles.

City Boiler Inspector W. B. McKim said the spray is just east of the business district.

McKim said insurance companies are extremely interested in finding the source because of a flood of claims.

Ballot Title Okayed by Gentry

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The ballot title of the so-called city "home rule" constitutional amendment was approved today by Atty. Gen. Tom Gentry.

Backers of the move said petitions already were in the hands of the printers. Circulation will begin soon, they said.

The proposed amendment would give cities in Arkansas a larger role in their own government. Under present law, the state government for cities and set limits on municipal taxation.

Signatures of 33,513 qualified voters will be required to gain the proposed amendment a place on the November general election ballot. The signatures must represent voters in at least 15 counties.

The deadline for filing petitions for the November election is July 6.

Raymond Hedges, secretary of the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce, said meetings in 24 cities have been set up.

The proposed amendment is being backed by Arkansas Citizens' Committee for Home Rule, a group of Little Rock business and professional men. The group is headed by Biglow Robinson of Little Rock.

Howard Cockrill, vice chairman of the group, said the amendment would give any Arkansas city the "power to perform any function not denied by its charter, so long as these powers pertain to the operation of the municipal government."

"Now a city or town can only exercise those powers delegated by the General Assembly and permitted by the constitution," Cockrill said.

Civil and criminal laws would not be affected, he said.

Cockrill described the proposed amendment as "permissive legislation." He said no city or town would be required to adopt it.

This is the fourth attempt since 1947 to pass "home rule" legislation. None of the earlier efforts got as far as the general election ballot.

Demonstration Fails to Halt Hiss' Talk

By RELMAN MORIN PRINCETON, N. J. (AP) — Alger Hiss spoke on the heavily guarded Princeton University campus last night in a calm anticlimax to weeks of fanfare.

It was his first public speech since his release from prison.

Protests against the heralded appearance of the convicted perjurer before a student debating society had led to rumors of possible demonstrations.

But all was peaceful. After speaking on foreign policy, Hiss slipped out a back door of the meeting hall to avoid a waiting crowd and returned to his New York City home.

Hiss, whose role at the Yalta conference has been in bitter contention for years, told the students that "we got what we asked for in terms of technical concessions."

He also said, "I don't happen to believe that Yalta was such a pernicious occasion."

A query from a student during a question period led to the reference to the 1945 Yalta conference among the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and then British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and the late Russian Premier Joseph Stalin.

Hiss, then a high-ranking States Department official, was an advisor to Roosevelt at Yalta.

Five years later — in 1950 — he was convicted in New York City on perjury charges for denying before a federal grand jury that he issued out State Department secrets for a Soviet spy ring.

He served almost four years in a federal penitentiary.

Hiss was well received last night by members of the American Whig-Cliosophic Society who had invited him to address them.

They laughed at his quietly phrased jokes, and burst into applause frequently during his speech.

Democrats Quickly Switch Farm Proposals

BY B. L. LIVINGSTONE

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats, in a fast change of pace, today switched their affections from short-lived new farm side proposals to a two-billion-dollar farm bill patterned after President Eisenhower's suggestions.

Less than 24 hours after proposing it, Democratic farm leaders in the House last night dumped plans to put for "compensatory payments" to farmers in the form of valid subsidies intended to bring farm prices to the level of 90 percent of parity.

In its stead, they put forward plans to present a compromise farm bill containing Eisenhower's soil bank program and other non-controversial provisions of the catch-all measure voted two weeks ago by the President.

The switch, latest in a series of confused maneuvers, came after Republican farm belt members and many Democratic House members turned a cold shoulder on cash subsidy payments to farmers.

Rep. Cooley (D-NC) said the decision was reached in consideration of Republican predictions of another presidential veto. However, Rep. Poage (D-Tex) said he planned to carry the fight to the floor of the House anyway.

Poage was the original sponsor of the subsidy proposal, which called for cash subsidies equal to the difference between current parity supports and 90 percent of parity. Parity is a price determined under farm law to be fair to farmers in relation to their costs.

Cooley, meanwhile, prepared a bill for Agriculture Committee consideration Monday wrapping up a number of features of the vetoed farm bill, including the President's $1,200,000,000 soil bank.

It would authorize another billion dollars for disposal of farm surpluses, and a corn price support program covering all corn farmers, and would write into law present price support levels established administratively by Eisenhower's order after his farm bill veto.

Rep. Hope of Kansas, senior Republican on the Agriculture Committee, termed it a "fair compromise."

But Hope and other GOP House leaders said they would insist also on authority for advance soil bank payments as requested by Eisenhower. This would make available up to 500 million dollars to farmers this year.

Cooley's announcement that the cash subsidy plan had been abandoned came after a long conference with Hope. The Kansas' refusal to go along with it was regarded as the influencing factor in the Democratic decision.

Marciano to Retire From the Ring

NEW YORK (UP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano announced today he is retiring undefeated "because I want to start living for my family."

"I am comfortably fixed and I am not afraid of the future," the tanned and fit looking champion said as he became the fourth man in ring history to retire without suffering a single defeat.

Marciano, who had won all 49 of his bouts and successfully defended the heavyweight championship six times, said he finally succumbed yesterday to his family's pleadings.

"We want to have more children and the way you have to live as a fighter has made me a poor father to my three and one-half-year-old daughter, Mary Ann," Marciano added. "You've got to go home and get introduced to your family. It's a funny feeling after a while."

Marciano said that to be a boxer and "to stay in tip top shape" he had been able to spend only two weeks at a time with his family.

"When I started I was single," he said. "But my mother and my wife have been pleading with me to retire and I told them last night that I would do what they wanted."

"I took a vacation with my wife and I enjoyed it so thoroughly that I realized what I was missing," the champion added.

Marciano, wearing a dark blue suit and checkered cravat, looked extremely well conditioned despite reports that he was terribly overweight.

"My physical condition has nothing to do with my retirement," he said as he opened his coat and patted a flat stomach.

"In my last fight, I weighed 187-1/2 pounds and right this second I weigh only 210," he said.

Experiment Funds for Atom Ships Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administration request for $37,900,000 to build three experimental merchant ships, including an atomic tanker, was turned down today by the House Appropriations Committee.

The money had been included in the $1,522,673,000 President Eisenhower sought to finance the Commerce Department and related agencies for the fiscal year starting July 1. The committee cut the over-all request to $1,382,003,000.

The House Merchant Marine Committee had questioned the authority of the Maritime Administration to build the ships even if the money were provided.

Ninety-eight million was chopped from the 295 million requested for maritime activities and 25 millions from the 800 million asked for federal-aid highway work. However, the money approved for the highway program is 35 millions more than Congress appropriated for the current year.

For the Census Bureau the committee recommended 1 3/4 million to start a census of governments, a million for a national housing survey, and $150,000 to prepare for 1958 censuses of business, transportation, manufacturers and mineral industries.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration was allotted 198 million a cut of 6 1/2 million. The committee earmarked a large chunk of CAA money for construction of 18 new radar centers and improvement of existing radar.

Don McCullar, president of Local 381 International Union of Operating Engineers, said the offer would be considered at the next union meeting. He said the local would meet soon but didn't specify when.

In a letter to union members, Lion President T. M. Martin also offered increases in the differential paid for work on the 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. shift and the overnight shifts.

Martin said the plant, which shut down when the strike started on March 2, had resumed operation with supervisory employees.

McCullar said there might be a limited operation but added he didn't think there would be a full operation "with inexperienced personnel because of the danger involved."

The strike grew out of a dispute over wage scales.

The union has not made public its demands, but has charged that wages at another refinery here are considerably higher than at Lion. Wages under the old contract ranged from $1.49 to $2.58 an hour.

The State Department Wednesday demanded the recall of two low-rank Soviet delegation members, Aleksandr K. Guryanov and Nikolai Surkin, charging they engaged in "particular objectionable acts" in connection with the case. It also warned Sobolev to adhere strictly to his U.N. functions while in the United States on diplomatic status.

The Soviet statement said arrangements for the return of the seamen were made by a Soviet consular official in Washington. U.S. immigration authorities at New York's Idlewild Airport interviewed the men before their departure April 7, the statement continued, and found "that the Soviet seamen were leaving the United States at their own freely expressed will."

L. M. Zamyatin, Sobolev's top political aide, told a news conference his chief and other members of the delegation went to the airport as friends and compatriots to see the seamen off. He termed groundless a State Department charge that Sobolev intervened during the immigration interview.

Negroes Consider Biracial Committee

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — More than 5,000 Negroes began to gather today for a meeting to consider forming a biracial committee to "explore the present race tension" in Mississippi.

Formation of the committee was high on the list of activities for the fifth annual convention of the Regional Council of Negro Leadership.

Last week, Gov. J. P. Coleman pledged his assistance to such a committee "as long as the committee does not seek to change Mississippi's segregation laws."

R. L. Drew, convention board chairman, said yesterday, the leaders of 40 of Mississippi's Negro organizations would draft the resolution creating the committee.

In addition, 1,000 Negro ministers of all denominations will hold a panel discussion on "The role of the church in the present transition."

Tonight at Forest, 40 miles to the southeast, Sen. Eastland (D-Miss) will address a Citizens Council rally. Citizens councils are groups of white men dedicated toward keeping segregation in all walks of life.

Lion in Offer to Striking Workers

EL DORADO, (AP) — Lion Oil Co. has offered its striking employees a wage increase of 15 cents an hour and another increase of an 10 cents an hour six months after a contract is signed.

Don McCullar, president of Local 381 International Union of Operating Engineers, said the offer would be considered at the next union meeting. He said the local would meet soon but didn't specify when.

In a letter to union members, Lion President T. M. Martin also offered increases in the differential paid for work on the 3 p.m. to 11 p.m. shift and the overnight shifts.

Most Important Duty Parents Face Is the Infliction of Discipline on One's Offspring

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most important duties a parent faces is the infliction of discipline on one's offspring.

All my life I have been a rebel against the idea of conformity. I have never wanted to be like anyone else. I have always wanted to be only myself — and after many years I'm not sure I've found the goal. I know, better than any critic, that I have yet to become the one I'd like to be.

Well, late in life but young in heart, my wife and I went to a department store to buy a gargle and a toothbrush, and you know how those department store people get confused.

Our only investment in her has been love, and we feel no need of a refund.

The other evening, worn out by a hard day of adventure with our children, she ran a slight tom.

Compulsory TB
Law Hits Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas
1935 law providing for compulsory treatment of tubercular persons reached the state Supreme Court today.

Lloyd King of Prairie Grove,
now under order from Washington County Probate Court to return to the state sanatorium at Booneville, appealed to the Supreme Court. He contended he was being treated by a private physician and that his mother needed him to care for her.

Act 181 of 1935 provided that county health officers could act
through probate courts to force tubercular persons to return to the sanatorium if the disease was contagious enough to be considered a danger to others.

King, 41, entered the sanatorium in 1931. A short time later he was given a leave of absence and never returned.

Dr. Wilma Sacks, Washington County health officer, obtained a court order to have King committed to the institution. She said he had a "far advanced and contagious case of tuberculosis."

DOROTHY DIX

He Won't Reform!
Tell Him Your True Age
Afraid of Marriage

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a divorcee of 36, emotionally disturbed and very lonely. A year ago I met a man, six years my junior,
very nice looking, good natured and a delightful companion. I fell in love with him so desperately that I was almost out of my mind
when he wasn't near me.

He was a heavy drinker, often failing to keep dates because he was drunk. We talked of marriage but never reached a decision. Regarding it, a few weeks ago I decided I had had enough. I threatened to break off with him. He promised to go away, stop drinking, then come back to marry me.

I still love him; even though I go out with others, there's always an empty feeling in my heart.
Would it help for me to go to a larger city and start all over again,
should I wait for him to come back, or do you think the whole thing is hopeless?

LONELY IRENE

Dear Irene: There's too "much running away" in your little saga. Either the principals or their intentions need revision.

If your friend's intentions were honest and sincere, he would have had no reason to run away for his reformation. That could have been accomplished with greater effectiveness right with you. My crystal ball reveals a boy (though with the years of a man) who balks
at responsibility and has no intention of marching to the strains of "Lohengrin."

Though you describe your Don Juan as a "delightful companion," he seems to have contributed very little to your life except tears.
Buck up, girl, peek around the corner and see what life has in store for you. Something much better than a drunken husband. I'm sure.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm an attractive girl of 20, and have been going with a man of 33. He thinks I'm much older. We're compatible in every respect and up to now have been very fond of each other.
Lately I find him getting cold. His attitude may be due to the fact that his family responsibilities
stand in the way of marriage.

SUSIE M.

Dear Susie M.: Why not try frankness? Admit your true age, and also your love. (This is leap year), asking him what his feelings and intentions are. Better face facts, even if they're bitter,
than stall around.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Perhaps I've waited too long, but at 29 I'm afraid of marriage. I've been going with a fine man, we've talked of marriage, but with so many failing apart at the seams today, we're both dubious of taking a gamble.

PEG

Dear Peg: Perhaps marriage is a gamble, but why should you two be exempt from the chance that most people take? Instead of worrying about whether the cards
will fall your way or not, learn

Ex-Hospital Head
to Visit Faubus

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval Faubus expects a visit within the next two weeks from a former superintendent of the State Hospital.

Faubus says Dr. George W.
Jackson, now a Kansas resident,
is scheduled for a visit to discuss the possibility of establishing a new program for the institution
now headed by Dr. E. H. Crawfis.

The governor and Crawfis have been involved in a running dispute since Faubus presented a list of complaints about operations of the hospital.

Crawfis, who has indicated he prefers to remain at his post, said recently he is considering a job in Ohio. The controversy has resulted in the resignation of three hospital officials.

The superintendent said yesterday he knows nothing of Jackson's proposed visit.

Faubus has said he would not be displeased if Crawfis should lose his Arkansas job, but he declined yesterday to say whether Jackson has been offered the position.

Metals such as aluminum, copper and gold, when ground very fine, are used as pigments in paint.

son why. To climb into the window area and lean out too far,
or to adventure into the street
by herself, might cause us to lose her, and that without her life
could never be the same again
for her father and mother.

The odd thing I have found is that when I pummel her behind real hard out of blind panic because she has violated the laws of her personal safety she will weep but little, and come and cling to the palm swung against her. She knows why.

But if, jokingly, I raise my hand
threateningly over a minor infraction of our family rules she will stand there, a baby tigress at bay,
and say: "I can't spank me!"
Sure enough I can't.

Generally speaking, I have found that in dealing with a daughter almost three — particularly in solving such topics as:
"Don't make your poor old mother pick up all those toys," or, "If you really don't want this breakfast, please let me scrape it off your face" — it is better to abstain from a firm palm and hope for the best from a heart-to-heart talk.

At least when a woman is approaching the age of three she'll hear you through.

"No Other Gods"

Thou shalt have no other Gods before me," Exodus 20:3. God said it and God meant every word of it...three friends tell another. The trio of church workers know the imperious need of the personable young man is a love for God and the Church. "Other Gods," have snatched his interests and dominate his life. The way we go and the road we travel make a difference. We are commanded to keep the Sabbath and honor father and mother. We must not murder, hate, lust, steal nor covet. We are commanded to worship the Lord our God, and the church is a wonderful place for that. When God's commandments become our commandments and God's way becomes our way... we'll have "No other Gods before Him."

Sunday School Lesson

By William Gilroy, D. D.

A generation or so ago one often used to hear a distinction made between churchianity and Christianity. It is a distinction that one seldom, if ever hears made today.

The reason, I think, is that churches in general Methodists, Presbyterians, Catholics, Episcopalians, Anglicans and the Christian ideal. Sects and Episcopallians are emphasizing sectionalism are less emphasized. I write as a Protestant concerned ing Protestantism, without deference to Roman Catholic or Greek Orthodox churches, which make their special claim to authority.

In the wide range of Protestantism the so-called "ecumenical" movement, effective in the organization of National and World Councils has done much to ease, or obliterate, harsh boundary lines in emphasizing a common source and elements of a common faith. Denominational pro-labels are of less significance; ably that churches in general Methodists, Presbyterians, Catholics, Episcopalians, Anglicans and the Christian ideal. Sects and Episcopallians are emphasizing sectionalism are less emphasized. I write as a Protestant concerned are finding new meanings and areas of Christian fellowship. That is all as it ought to be. But I think there is still the need of a distinction between churchianity and Christianity. In the wide range of religious movements one may observe a tendency for movements to become much diverted from the principles and convictions with which they began. A group that began in a saint devoted to poverty may become a rich and powerful organization. Such a development is not altogether untypical.

As one of Methodist upbringing I would not say that world Methodism has departed from the spirit and principles of John Wesley, but its power and strength are a wide development from the small "classes" with their "leaders" (of which I wrote recently), and the itinerant preaching of early Methodism.

In my own Congregational Christian fellowship a split has occurred, and a substantial group has withdrawn, over the contention that a proposed church merger violates both the letter and spirit of historic Congregationalism. The dissident group claims to be as ecumenically interested as others, but claims that ecumenicity is a matter of the spirit, rather than of organizational unity in which essential convictions are compromised.

I cite these instances of the way in which religions and institutions become diverted from their founders; but they are of minor importance in comparison with the question whether churches and institutions professing Christianity actually express and embody the spirit and teaching of Jesus as revealed in the New Testament.

Churches need testing against the basic essential truths that they profess. There is a very real sense in which Churchianity may not be Christianity; and there is a possible actual discrepancy in the fact that church membership is not always the accompaniment, or evidence, of Christian life and character.

Individuals, as well as churches, need to check themselves against the life and teaching of the Master they profess to follow.
